HORSING AROUND: The Budweiser Clydesdales Parade in Old Town BSL

BY GEOFF BELCHER News Editor

Thousands of people lined the streets of Old Town Bay St. Louis on Saturday to watch and cheer for the famed Budweiser Clydesdales as part of their visit to the Mississippi Gulf Coast. "Oh my gosh, what a gift!" Nikki Moon, owner of the Bay Town Inn and a member of the board of directors for Visit Mississippi Gulf Coast said. "I think Bay St. Louis was so fortunate to be included in their tour of the Coast and what a special night it was for everybody being Second Saturday. It was a great, fun night." Bay St. Louis was the third stop on the four-city tour for the clydesdales. Earlier in the week, they visited Biloxi and Gulfport, then Ocean Springs on Sunday, in a tour sponsored by Mitchell Distributing, which distributes for Anheuser-Busch Brewing Company on the Coast and in other locations around the state. Also participating in Saturday's parade were the Mystic Krewe of the Seahorse and its court, the Bay High School Marching Band, Studio of Classique Vibe Dancers, vintage cars, the Bay Ratz Marching Battery. Bay St. Louis was the only city on the tour to

Hancock Grand Jury recommends better officer pay, increased security and more

BY GEOFF BELCHER News Editor

Hancock County Grand Jury last week recommended -- among other things -- that local law enforcement agencies put more resources into paying and training officers; that all law enforcement agencies use the services of Hope Haven in cases involving child victims; and that security be increased at the Hancock County Youth Court. A new panel is selected for the Hancock County Grand Jury twice a year, meeting as often as necessary over roughly a six-month period to consider criminal prosecutions and other matters required by law. The grand jury is the last stage in a criminal investigation. A total of 20 grand jurors is impaneled for each term. Grand juries determine whether cases from local law enforcement agencies should be indicted, returned to officers for further investigation or dismissed. They also make recommendations on improving a number of different other matters in the county. The August 2018 Grand Jury last week issued 83 True Bills -- meaning 83 cases would be indicted; 23 No Bills -- meaning 23 cases would not be indicted; passed seven cases on to the next grand jury; and returned 23 cases back to law enforcement. During its tenure, the August 2018

Body found at Pass Harbor identified as missing man, police say

BY STACEY CATO Contributing Writer

Officials say they have identified the body found in the water at Pass Christian Harbor Friday evening as a man who was reported missing earlier in the week. Pass Christian Police Chief Tim Hendricks said monday the body of Jerry Michael Henderson, 62, was spotted by visitors floating in the water just south of the pier at around 2:30 p.m. on Friday. Henderson's body has been sent to the Mississippi State Crime Lab in Pearl for an autopsy to determine the cause of death. Henderson, a local fisherman, was reported missing on Wednesday, police say, after family members grew concerned when they could not get ahold of him for days. The Department of Marine Resources assisted police in a search launched Thursday at the harbor, where Henderson was last seen.

BWSD Board talks future capital projects

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
Staff Writer

The Bay-Waveland School District Board of Trustees on Monday hosted a workshop to discuss capital improvement projects.

Architect John Stolarski said there is about $3 million available in the capital fund.

One project Stolarski said that the district could add to the upcoming demolition of the Early Education Center facility would be the extension of a sidewalk and canopy at Waveland Elementary, which is set to bid in April. The other project set to bid in two months is the renovations to the entryway at North Bay Elementary.

Another project Stolarski said the board needs to consider is making the stage at the high school auditorium ADA compliant, which he said could be accomplished with the installation of a lift.

The other project that the board has previously discussed is the construction of a new field house, or multi-sport training complex, at the football field.

"With that being said, yes, we have $3 million to play with, but we will get close to the end of that pretty quickly once we add up of all this," Stolarski said.

"The two that we're about to go out for bid is close to $400,000. We're estimating the EEC demo being about $370,000. If we include putting the sidewalk and canopy, that's going to get us somewhere upwards over $400,000. The entrance to North Bay is taking out the reception counter and then adding an extra door and window and secure locks. That's around $65,000."

Stolarski said he estimates the new facility at the field house would come in at about $1.2 million.

Prior to Monday's meeting, the board had not authorized Stolarski to draft plans for the sports complex, but he presented a conceptual plan.

He added that construction could take anywhere from nine months to a year, depending on when construction begins.

During the regular meeting, the board voted to include the sidewalk and canopy extension at Waveland Elementary with the EEC demolition project. The board also moved the bid dates to March 5 and 12, with bids openings on April 4 and ready for board authorization at the April 8 meeting.

The board also approved a motion authorizing Stolarski to draft plans for a multi-sport training complex.

In other action:

Superintendent Dr. Sandra Reed announced that "for the first time in BWSD history" the high school "has no student that has to retest as a graduating senior."

Reed told the board that the district has a "significant audit finding."

"We were cited for not having a system of internal controls regulating proper segregation of duties in the business office," Reed said. "Prior to July 1, we only had one person in the school district that was authorized to receive, download, access, and review all of our banking information. That's very obviously a breach in accounting protocol, I would think, and certainly a breach in accounting safety."

"So we were cited on our audit report for that and are required to do a corrective action plan."

Board Trustee Ann Lathrop asked why the district needed both the services of project manager Stolarski and construction manager Bill Carrigee, Jr. "We're paying for a security blanket," Trustee Mike Bell said. "Prior to the last four projects, we had an architect who served as construction manager and failed us in that role. The last four projects have been on schedule and on budget."

Trustee Vicki Arnold, who attended the meeting via phone, said she has been satisfied with Stolarski.

"To be honest, I have a problem with paying two people to do basically the same things that Mr. Stolarski is doing," she said.

The board approved a motion, made by Arnold and seconded by Lathrop, to terminate the contract with construction manager Carrigee.

The motion passed three to two, with trustee Casey Favre, Lathrop, and Arnold voting "yes." Trustees Mark Kidd and Bell voted "no."

The next meeting is scheduled for March 11 at 5:30 p.m.

HCUA discusses Kiln assuming wastewater maintenance

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
Staff Writer

The Hancock County Utility Authority Board on Thursday discussed the possibility of the Kiln Water and Fire District assuming financial responsibility for its maintenance of its wastewater operations.

Waveland's board representative Brent Anderson began the discussion.

"How does this board go about revisiting percentages?" he asked.

HCUA Executive Director David Pitalo said the percentages are based on flow and revisited every month.

"Every month we get a total flow out of all our plants and every month we read a meter for all our entities and you divide your flow divided by the total month and you get a percentage," Pitalo said.

Anderson said, after looking at the budget, that Waveland is contributing 30 percent to the maintenance of the Kiln system.

"In turn, they're only paying 18 percent of the maintenance on their own system, but collecting 100 percent," Anderson said.

Pitalo said the Kiln is actually at about 8.3 percent.

"Why can't we revisit and put these percentages at equal or somewhat equal across the board?" Anderson said.

Anderson asked Kiln HCUA board member Patricia Cuevas, "what are the chances of y'all taking y'all's sewer maintenance out of the utility authority budget?"

Anderson said it could potentially net a savings of $80,000 a year for the HCUA.

"The Kiln is collecting the revenue off of it with no debt and maintenance free, well eight percent," Anderson said.

Cuevas said that question "comes up all the time."

Cuevas suggested to Anderson that he compile a presentation and present it to

New Video Highlights Stennis Space Center Preparations for NASA Space Launch System Testing

SEA COAST ECHO

Stennis Space Center has released a new video highlighting preparations to test the core stage of NASA's new Space Launch System (SLS) rocket.

The video focuses on work performed to restore and renovate the B-2 Test Stand at Stennis for the SLS core stage project. Titled Six Years of Nonstop Work, the new video can be accessed via a link on the Stennis website or a NASA is building its SLS rocket to carry astronauts deeper into space than ever before, including to such destinations as the Moon and, ultimately, Mars. It has been testing RS-25 engines to help power the rocket on the A-1 Test Stand at Stennis since January 2015.

In addition, NASA has spent the last six years renovating and preparing the B-2 stand to test the SLS core stage the Kiln Water and Fire District Board.

"This is the SRF loan," she said. "We contribute to something that we never got a dime out of."

Pitalo said the loan was for Bay St. Louis, Waveland and the county.

"The Kiln and Pearlinton didn't get nothing out of it because it was before them," Pitalo said.

Cuevas said that when Kiln agreed to become a part of the HCUA, it also agreed to "absorb a portion of the SRF loan."

Cuevas said the Kiln paid $80,000 this year on the loan.

Board of Supervisors HCUA board member Blaine LaFontaine said it sounded to him that the only tradeoff the Kiln would accept would be dismissal from the SRF loan.

Pitalo said that's not possible. All entities signed a wastewater agreement, he said, and all agreed to take on the debt services as well as operations and maintenance.

"When all this infrastructure came in, the Kiln only had a couple of water operators, because all they had was a water system," Pitalo said. "As they put this whole system in, they had nobody to operate it. So we discussed it with the (then) board and decided it would be best for the utility authority to handle the lift stations and force mains. Where it came down to an issue, is that we should have put a time frame on it, and we didn't."

Cuevas said Anderson is not the first one to bring the topic up.

Anderson asked how the Kiln "ended up with the system to collect money?"

Pitalo said the utility authority owns it and it was turned over to the Kiln to operate and maintain.

Anderson asked if HCUA owns the infrastructure, "can't we transfer that to someone who would cover the maintenance on it?"

Cuevas said another contention is that, "if it's ours, sign it over to us, but you can't do that either, it belongs to the utility authority."

HCUA board attorney Heather Smith said that the problem is more of a DEQ issue.

"They don't want to see any of this be turned over, ownership transferred," she said. "They want it to be a regional system."

Anderson asked Pitalo and Smith to contact the Public Service Commissioner about whether or not the HCUA has the authority to rescind certifications.

In other action:

Pitalo told the board that there was an error on last month's 2018 Over/Under report.

He said there were some "minor issues in some flow numbers from October, November, and December of 2017. After the modification, Pitalo said there was about a half percent difference.

"It dropped everyone's credit but also gave credit to the Kiln and Hancock County Water and Sewer District," Pitalo said. "So nobody owes any money. We (HCUA) owe credit."

At last month's meeting, it was reported that Hancock County Water and Sewer owed $10,394; and Kiln Utility and Fire owed $4,527.

Pitalo also gave the board updates on personnel matters.

"I have been looking at different ways of trying to save money," he said. "I know you guys have continued to ask me to look into different things."

Pitalo said that two of the HCUA's operators recently retired.

Pitalo said he hired a Class 2 operator and one other employee. Pitalo added that the starting salaries for the new employees is a "lot less" than what the former operators made, one at $16 per hour and the other at $17 per hour.

Pitalo said there were 11 positions in this year's budget. Two positions that were not filled were eliminated, Pitalo said.

After combining some job tasks, Pitalo said there is now a potential savings of $103,064. The savings also includes raises for three employees who are taking on additional duties, Pitalo said. Duane Ray is now wastewater manager, in addition to chief maintenance operator, a wastewater class IV and class D water operator. His salary was raised from about $42,000 to $55,000.

Sean Henton is now the water supply manager in addition to class D water operator and wastewater class IV. His salary was raised from about $46,945 to $53,000.

David Brown is a SCADA manager and instrumentation technician. He recently received his water certificate, which according to the HCUA policy, warrants a $1 per hour raise. His salary was raised from about $49,171 to $51,171.

The next meeting is scheduled for March 7 at 4:30 p.m.

"We decided to call in DMR to search the waters and other areas of the harbor," said Hendricks, "We thought he may have had something medical occur or even fell overboard into the water." According to Hendricks, Henderson owned a boat that was parked there.

"It was not uncommon for him to stay on his boat," Hendricks said. "He worked odd jobs, so would sometimes just sleep out there."

An investigation into the exact cause of Henderson's death is ongoing at this time.

"Right now, there's nothing to indicate foul play," Hendricks said, "but we are not ruling anything out."

A rewarding day at the zoo with NBE students

Since I was a child, I've always had a fondness for elephants.

It began, I believe, with an elephant toy my dad brought me back from one of his business trips.

While elephants remain my favorite animal, my love for animals has grown to include several species.

When I heard the teacher of the class with the Echo's junior reporters was awarded a grant for a field trip to the Audubon Zoo, I jumped on the chance to experience the zoo again and also help the junior reporter with writing a story about the experience.

Even through Friday's weather was quite cold and windy, the students appeared to enjoy their trip very much.

They also participated in a competition to see which group of students could find and write down the names of all the vertebrates they saw.

They paid close attention to each animal they saw to ensure they were getting it right.

I'm not much of an advocate for enclosing these types of animals in a small space, especially my beloved elephants.

On the other hand, if it wasn't for places like zoos, we might not be able to experience these animals without visiting their natural habitat.

I'm an Instagram junkie and, through that, I follow the work of The David Sheldrick Wildlife Trust.

Taken from their website, "At the heart of the DWST's conservation activities is the Orphans' Project, which has achieved world-wide acclaim through its hugely successful elephant and rhino rescue and rehabilitation program. The Orphans' Project exists to offer hope for the future of Kenya's threatened elephant and rhino populations as they struggle against the threat of poaching for their ivory and horn, and the loss of habitat due to human population pressures and conflict, deforestation, and drought."

Every day, the Instagram account is filled with pictures and videos of the remarkable work the elephant keepers and others perform. Not to mention, adorable videos of orphaned baby elephants eating from their bottles.

They also fly over areas and track poachers as well as help an animal they find that has been injured in a snare or encountered some other calamity.

I have much respect for the work that these people do to help protect these animals that find themselves targets of the greedy and heartless.

But, from what I can tell, the animals at the Audubon Zoo are well taken care of.

I enjoyed my day at the zoo.

It's always a joy to experience moments like this through the eyes of children.

The students were also well-behaved, which also made it an enjoyable experience.

You can learn more about The David Sheldrick Wildlife Trust at www.sheldrickwildlifetrust.org.

Mississippi's polls

The latest Millsaps College/Chism Strategies State of the State Survey has some interesting insights into the opinions of Mississippi voters.

For the sixth consecutive year, infrastructure remained the most pressing issue with 27 percent of voters picking "fixing roads and bridges" as the "top priority for Mississippi's elected leaders." Number two was "more funding for public schools" with 19 percent, followed by "making healthcare more accessible and affordable" with 17 percent, "reducing the size of state government" with 12 percent, "giving tax incentives and grants to companies that create jobs" with 10 percent, "protecting traditional family values" with 8 percent, "more funding for universities and community colleges" with 3 percent. "Other" was 5 percent.

Polls can be skewed by how you phrase the questions and options. It would have been interesting if the poll had added "lowering taxes" as one of the priorities instead of "reducing the size of state government." Nevertheless, the poll does seem to indicate a willingness of voters to spend more money for infrastructure, schools and health care.

The poll reveals 65 percent of Mississippi voters believe public school funding is too low. That's an increase from 56 percent last year. There was a direct correlation between education level and support for more education funding. Forty-four percent of voters with less than a high school degree wanted more education funding compared to 70 percent with an advanced degree.

Democrats (83 percent), Democratic leaners (84 percent), independents (61 percent) and Republican leaners (54 percent) all want more public school funding compared to strong Republicans (45 percent).

More than 60 percent of Mississippi voters favor expanding Medicaid under the Affordable Care Act. Mississippi is one of 14 states that has not expanded Medicaid, foregoing a billion dollars a year in federal money. Twenty-nine percent oppose the expansion.

Although there have been reports of some Republican leaders softening their opposition to Medicaid expansion, Republican frontrunner in the governor's race, Lt. Gov. Tate Reeves is not one of them. When asked last week at the Stennis Press Forum why he is opposed to Medicaid expansion, Reeves said, "I'm opposed to Obamacare expansion in Mississippi." And he said it three times in a row with a defiant tone. End of answer.

Reeves is going to continue his cost-cutting, tax-cutting platform, although he advocated further teacher pay raises. Also, look for Reeves to make Nancy Pelosi his punching bag, even though the governor has little to do with federal policy.

This Week in the MS Legislature

It was one of those very hectic weeks. Tuesday was the deadline for committees to report on general bills, which means that any legislation that was not voted out of its committee this week is dead for the session.

Lawmakers spent the majority of the week debating bills on the general calendar. Highlights include, from both the House and the Senate this week, because I think the House passed some pretty cool stuff that several of you would be interested in.

Landowners Protection Act – Passed by the Senate, this bill reduces the liability of property and business owners if someone is injured on their property. The purpose of the bill is to protect small businesses from unnecessary lawsuits.

The Moran Report

by PHILIP MORAN

State Senator

However, the bill states that if a business owner ignores signs of violence or harm, they could be liable.

Heartbeat Bill – Both House and Senate public health committees passed their respective versions of the "Heartbeat Bill," which prevents physicians from performing an abortion if the heartbeat is detected except for a medical emergency.

School Safety Act - The House passed the school safety bill that requires active shooter training in all schools within the first 60 days of the school year. There was much debate on the House floor surrounding students participating in the drill. The bill also requires that age-appropriate mental health education be provided to students.

Mississippi Brain Drain – To encourage college graduates to live in Mississippi, the House passed a bill that would provide a tax break for college graduates who stay in, return to, or move to Mississippi within two years of graduation. These graduates would be required to remain in Mississippi for five years to be eligible to receive a refund of half of their state income taxes. Graduates who become teachers or start businesses in Mississippi would receive a 100% state income tax refund after five years.

Israel Support Act – Passed by the House, this bill would prohibit Mississippi government from investing in companies that boycott Israel. It now moves to the Senate.

Next week will be a busy one with Thursday's deadline for the House and Senate to take floor action on their general bills. I will keep you informed on bills that advance out of their originating house.

It was great seeing all of the visitors from Corinth and Tippah this week. Anytime you are in Jackson; I encourage you to stop and visit with us.

Bay native receives national award

SEA COAST ECHO

Bay St. Louis native and St. Stanislaus College alumnus Tate Thriffiley, now of Hattiesburg, was honored on Feb. 11 in Washington, D.C., as a 2019 Champion of the Year by The Partnership for the 21st Century Conservation Service Corps. Thriffiley, along with other honorees, was recognized during the annual Partnership for the 21CSC.

Thriffiley, an ecologist with the De Soto National Forest, U.S. Forest Service, was chosen based on his commitment and actions taken toward building a sustainable partnership between the Mississippi Gulf Corps and the USDA Forest Service-De Soto National Forest, including training of young adults, and for getting conservation work accomplished on the landscape. And overall, for championing the 21st Century Conservation Corps program.

The 21CSC is a private-

public partnership that engages more than 25,000 returning veterans and young Americans each year to strengthen America's infrastructure, boost local economies, and multiply returns on our country's most valuable assets – it's unmatched landscapes and people.

Nominations were made by 21st Century Conservation Corps groups and Partner Agencies across the entire country.

"I am thankful to be a part of this work with the MS Gulf Corps," Thriffiley said. "It's a great honor to receive the recognition for the work we've done and the relationships we've developed. The greatest gift has been getting to know the young adults in this program and seeing their passion for conservation of the natural world grow as they simultaneously learn and practice skillsets for managing the land in a holistic manner."

While appreciative of the award, Thriffiley said his work requires a group effort on the part of project sponsors.

prior to its first launch. For the testing, the flight stage for the first SLS Exploration Mission-1 will be installed on the stand, then all four of its RS-25 engines test fired, just as will occur during an actual launch.

Six Years of Nonstop Work highlights the extent and range of work performed to prepare the stand. Engineers spent 18 months in the formulation phase, evaluating all B-2 facility structures and systems and identifying work needed for restoration and renovation of the stand, as well as for core stage testing.

Design, construction and activation work followed. The project was divided into three phases – restoring the stand to original condition after years without use, building the facility out to accommodate the SLS stage and installing all special test equipment needed.

The new video focuses on the build out stage, which was significant and featured upgrades of every major system on the stand, as well as the high-pressure system that provides hundreds of thousands of gallons of water needed during a test. It also involved extending the large derrick crane atop the stand, which will be used to lift the SLS stage into place.

The most visible work featured repositioning of the existing Main Propulsion

Test Article framework, which was used to test the space shuttle propulsion system in the 1970s. The shuttle framework stood 61 feet tall and included about 1.2 million pounds of fabricated steel. After it was repositioned 20 feet horizontally, an additional 1 million pounds of steel was added to extend the framework 100 feet to house the larger, taller SLS stage.

SLS core stage testing will mark the latest chapter in Stennis history, which tested Saturn V stages and engines that carried humans to the Moon during the Apollo Program, as well as engines used to power 135 space shuttle missions.

Boys & Girls Clubs of the Gulf Coast Launches Cinderella Celebrity Book Club

SEA COAST ECHO

On February 19, 2019 at 4:30 P.M., the members of the Boys & Girls Clubs of the Gulf Coast Hancock County Unit (310 Old Spanish Trail, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520) will go live on a Skype call with "Celebrity Godparent" Quvenzhané Wallis, who starred as Annie in the 2014 film "Annie" and now guest stars on the television show "Black-ish".

The partnership began last October when 100 girls ages 5-8 were able to Skype interview author and actress on FOX's "Empire", Grace Byers. Members read Byers' book "I Am Enough", and had the opportunity to ask questions and engage in open dialogue with the author. "I Am Enough" focuses on positive affirmations, self-love, and reaching for your dreams. Each girl received her own copy of the book.

Saving Our Daughters works with girls from multicultural backgrounds through theater, film, culinary and literacy, to help them to overcome the many obstacles they face growing up: bullying (cyber, gossip, face-to-face), dating abuse, domestic violence and other esteem slayers. Saving Our Daughters creates the tools to get teen girls fired up to take the power away from negative issues of bullying, as celebrity supported art programs, educate girls beyond the borders of a traditional classroom.

Boys & Girls Clubs of the Gulf Coast has been serving thousands of children across the Mississippi Gulf Coast for over 50 years. Their mission, "To enable all young people, especially those who need us most, to reach their full potential as productive, caring, and responsible citizens" has helped foster healthy lifestyles, academic success, and character traits that will last for generations to come. Most recently, Boys & Girls Clubs of the Gulf Coast has partnered with Saving Our Daughters Cinderella Celebrity Book Club to bring new resources and information to young girls on the Gulf Coast.

seem to indicate Mississippi voters are growing tired of eight years of Republican belt tightening. Jim Hood will be a formidable opponent for Reeves. This race will be the first real test of the new Republican monopoly.

Another factor is Hood's more affable, good-ole-boy persona compared to Reeves, who can be a bit stiff and stuffy.

The poll had a lot of other interesting results. Mississippians support early voting by a 70-percent margin. Eighty-three percent support allowing rural electric cooperatives to get into the high speed internet business. The House just passed such a bill.

Hood's lawsuit against the three biggest opioid manufacturers has 70 percent support, another factor that will help him in the governor's race.

Mississippians don't like getting sued, as tort reform illustrated, but we love to sue big, rich out-of-state corporations if it brings money into the general fund.

Fifty-five percent of voters preferred to address the $75 million shortfall of the Public Employees Retirement System by funding additional state costs rather than cutting benefits to state workers.

Here's a jaw dropper: The poll found 67 percent of voters supported a ballot initiative for medical marijuana, which was approved last year in neighboring Arkansas. Only 24 percent oppose.

The state legislature is still not very popular, according to the poll, with 46 percent disapproving of its work compared to 24 percent approving. Ouch! Everybody likes their local representative but they dislike the body as a whole. What's with that?

After a tough election, the poll found Cindy Hyde-Smith has a minus-12 percent approval rating.

She'll make that up over time. Meanwhile, lieutenant governor candidate Delbert Hosemann has a whopping plus 30 percent rating.

When asked, "Do you believe Mississippi is headed in the right direction or wrong direction?" 36 said "right" and 42 percent said "wrong." Younger voters were twice as likely to say "wrong direction" than older voters.

Chism Strategies was founded by Brad Chism, a long-time Democrat. As Mark Twain reportedly said, "There are lies, damn lies and statistics."

But the poll seems very professionally done and the polling group seems to be representative of the state in terms of age, race and party affiliation. For instance, 32 percent were strong Republicans and 20 percent were strong Democrats. The rest were somewhere in between.

If the poll is accurate, the Republican Party dominance in our state may not be ironclad.

A Memorial Service will be held at a later date.

Edmond Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis, MS is in charge of the arrangements.

DOCTOR CARL JOSEPH MORAN, JR.

Doctor Carl Joseph Moran, Jr., age 76 years, passed peacefully into God's embrace on February 11, 2019, at his home in Diamondhead, Mississippi, surrounded by family and friends.

Carl was a shining light to his family, friends, and community. As a loving husband, devoted father and grandfather, beloved brother, uncle, physician, and friend, he brought a kindness and generosity of spirit to all areas of his life. He will be greatly missed by all who loved him.

From an early age, Carl knew he wanted to be able to help people and to make a lasting difference in their lives. He had a love and passion for Chemistry and a strong work ethic that led him to ultimately pursue a career in medicine.

Following his graduation from Hancock North Central in 1960, Carl continued his education at Mississippi State University where he earned his undergraduate degree in Chemistry. While at State, he met his life-long love, Jacqueline Durham, who became his wife on July 2, 1966.

Following his graduation from State, Carl was accepted to the University of Mississippi School of Medicine where he completed his medical degree in 1968. He began his professional life as a general practitioner at The Raymond Clinic. To his many friends in Raymond, Carl simply became known as "Doc." In the addition to being the "town doc", he was an integral and active citizen of the town of Raymond, Mississippi, for over 20 years.

Doc and Jackie made their home in Raymond where their family was completed with two daughters, Melissa and Marianna. Over the years, he shared many hobbies with his family many of which centered around their farm just outside of Raymond. He raised race horses but traded them for Tennessee Walkers once his daughters were old enough to show horses. He also raised Greyhounds and cattle. He especially enjoyed teaching the girls to fish on the small pond that always seemed to have the biggest fish.

Carl loved his practice and his town but the challenge of emergency medicine called to him. He began a new professional journey as an emergency room physician. He began practicing in a number of small hospitals throughout central Mississippi. Eventually, he moved back to the Gulf Coast full time. He found a home at Memorial Hospital at Gulfport and continued to work there until his retirement.

During his years on the Gulf Coast, Carl renewed his love for gardening. In his yard in Raymond, he had over 100 rose bushes but at the Coast he began growing and propagating prize-winning camellias. He transformed 10 acres of the family farm located in Kiln into a lush camellia garden with over 300 camellia bushes. He named this lovely place Geneva Gardens in honor of his beloved mother. He was an active member of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Camellia Club and the American Camellia Society, entering shows and leading grafting workshops for many years.

Throughout his personal and professional life, Carl never failed to help people whenever he could. If someone would mention returning a favor or kindness, he would always say of any good deed, "If you really want to repay me, help someone in need when you are able." He knew that very often the help we give is a small thing to us but to the person we are helping it could change everything. In these small things, a force of kindness is created revealing moments of grace.

He practiced medicine like a fine art perfecting his ability to genuinely listen to those in his care, connecting with them on a truly human level. He brought the same level of passion and devotion to everything he loved—his family, medicine, and his never-ending quest for his next great adventure. He lived a joyful life that he grabbed with both hands and had a heart filled with desire for new discoveries. He has now completed his earthly journey but will continue to live in the hearts of those who love him.

Carl was preceded in death by his parents, Carl Joseph and Geneva Hoda Moran; his sister, Edna Moran Lutz, her husband, Greg, and their infant daughter, Kaitlyn; his brother-in-law, Jack Gordy; his nephew, Dylan Gordy; and his niece, Jami Moran Cuevas.

He is survived by his wife, Jacqueline; his daughters, Melissa Manderson (Chris) and Marianna Flowers (Carl); three beloved grandchildren, Ava Leigh Manderson, Jordan Currie, and Tanner Leggett; his loving brothers and sisters, Helen Teachout (Bill), Warren Moran (Alyce), Lowell Moran (Sue), Frances Gordy, Barbara Westerfield (Woody), Philip Moran (Sheila); many nieces and nephews who he loved very much.

Visitation will be on Friday, February 15, 2019, from 6:00 pm – 8:00 pm, at the RIEMANN FAMILY FUNERAL HOME, 9113 Kiln Delisle Road, Pass Christian, MS 39571. A Celebration of Life service will be at 2 pm on Saturday, February, 16, 2019, at the Diamondhead Community Church, 5301 Diamondhead Circle, Diamondhead, MS 39525, where friends may visit from 1:00 pm – 2:00 pm. A private interment will take place on Sunday, February 17, 2019, at the Moran Family Cemetery in Kiln at the family farm.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the Memorial Hospital of Gulfport Foundation, the Mississippi Gulf Coast Camellia Club, or a charity of your choice.

An online guestbook may be signed and condolences offered at www.riemann-family.com

JURY

Grand Jury toured the Hancock County Adult Detention Center; Hancock County Justice Court; and Hancock County Youth Court.

"The grand jury recommends local governments review and evaluate law enforcement salaries and allocate funds to ensure pay is more attractive and competitive with similar law enforcement agencies," it said in its final report issued last week. "We recommend that local officials encourage increased funding and resources be allocated to the MS Forensics Laboratory to avoid substantial delays in completing cases and provide timely processing of evidence to ensure speedy trial."

It also recommended continuing education in investigative techniques and evidentiary training for officers, including training in computer forensics and cell phone exploitation.

It also recommended that "all law enforcement agencies use the services of the Hope Haven Child Advocacy Center and attend all interviews in cases involving child victims.

Other recommendations included:

- Fully funding education.
- That the board of supervisors and other officials evaluate space reallocation and electronic record storage at the Hancock County Courthouse to facilitate creating a prisoner holding cell.
- Increased security cameras and lighting for government buildings, public parks, campgrounds and piers "for better public safety and to aid law enforcement."
- Increased security measures at Hancock Youth Court, including metal detectors and video surveillance.

Hancock splits with Picayune, sweeps Bay on hardwood

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
Staff Writer

The high school basketball regular season is now in the books and the respective division tournaments are taking place at Gulfport High School, Bay High School and St. Patrick High school.

The Tigers are hosting the Division 8-4A tournament while the Hawks will be on the road at Gulfport this week. The Rocks and Pirates will make the short treks to Bay High while OLA travels to St. Patrick.

Bay High and Hancock were the final two programs in action this past Friday evening when the regular season came to a close.

The Tigers (16-12) hosted Long Beach for Senior Night this past Friday evening. The Bearcats came over and swept the Tigers in the final game of the 2019 season.

In girls action, the Lady Bearcats dispatched Bay High (4-20) 39-23 while Long Beach defeated Bay High boys (16-12) 67-53.

In Kiln, Hancock hosted Picayune in Senior Night action. The Lady Hawks (17-11) topped the Lady Maroon Tide 43-25.

After jumping out to a 11-3 lead in the first period, Picayune closed the gap by halftime down 18-14. But, a 17-6 run by Hancock in the third period sealed the win.

Lady Hawks head coach Jamie Sisco commented, "This was a great way to enter the division tournament. Tonight, we were able to show where we have come from since the beginning of the season and how we have handled the adversity of the past 10 days. We have suffered some injuries and setbacks physically but we are looking at returning to 100% soon. I am very proud of the team and how they have persevered this season."

Maddie Ladner led Hancock with 13 points followed by Jacey Garriga with 10 points.

In the boys game, the Hawks (8-19) dropped a close one to the Maroon Tide 51-46. Picayune jumped out to a 20-8 lead before rallying in the second period to go into intermission down 30-25.

Hancock head coach Derrick Willis stated, "We did not finish our opportunities and that led to the decision. Both teams fought hard but give Picayune credit for executing especially early."

Hancock was led by Blaine Knight and Payton Miller with nine points each.

The Hawks pulled off a big sweep in the final week of the regular season on the high school hardwood when they swept the visiting Bay High Tigers last Tuesday, February 5th in Kiln.

The Lady Hawks held the advantage throughout the game en route to a 49-27 victory. The Lady Hawks jumped out to a 12-2 lead in the first period and extended that advantage to 24-10 by halftime.

Maddie Ladner led Hancock with 16 points while Zayriah Henderson paced Bay High (4-19) with eight points.

In the boys matchup, the game was a much tighter contest before Hancock pulled away in the closing minutes of the fourth period for a 50-45 victory to complete the sweep.

The teams were tied 13-

13 at the end of the first period. Hancock took a 26-23 lead into intermission.

At the end of the third period, Hancock enjoyed a slim 37-35 lead.

Bay High head coach Randy McCrory stated, "We started the game off well; however, as we progressed through we got out of sync especially at the line and on the boards. Hancock was relentless on the boards. We gave up a size advantage but we need to find a way to negate that."

The Tigers were led by Kyren Galloway with 20 points followed by Elijah Curry with 11 points.

Hancock head coach Derrick Willis, "Our game plan was we wanted to use our size to our advantage. We worked the ball inside and our goal was to work the boards hard. Hopefully, the hard work we have put in will show when we play in our region tournament next week."

Hancock was led by Blaine Knight with 14 points. The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws (14-13) defeated Perry Central 76-57 on the road on Thursday, February 7th. Brandon Bordelon, Dallas Payne, and Charley Whaley all had double-digits in points and Luke Ladner finished with nine points off three treys.

Pass Christian (8-20) defeated Long Beach 86-69 last Tuesday evening in boys action while the Lady Pirates (21-6) defeated Long Beach 50-24.

OLA (3-15) dropped their game with Richton last Tuesday 61-25.

In upcoming action, all teams will be part of their respective division tournaments that are located at Bay High and Gulfport.

Working with a party of 5 in the Bay boat

My boat is a 26 foot Avenger center console. It is about the roomiest bay boat you will ever see. Even with the open deck, we still encourage customers to only bring groups of 3 to 4 fisherman. I have fished 5, even 6 people on my boat, and it is almost always an absolute nightmare. Usually, the only way the bigger groups work, are when adults help the kids, or someone not fishing to free up space. Keep in mind, our guides make more money with more people.

My most recent trip to the LA Marsh, was with Kennon McWilliams. My buddy Kennon had some "stow-a-ways" join the trip, at the very last minute. Our "maybe 2 or 3 people", turned into 5 guys. Kennon is an easy going fellow. As luck would have it, his buddies were too.

We spent the entire day working shorelines, ditches, ponds, and lagoons. Everyone slinging long casts, with Boat Monkey popping corks and live minnows. A couple of times during the day, I even made a few casts.

We found a mess of good slot size(22-24 inch) redfish. The only person to tangle up a spinning reel

SHORE THING FISHING REPORT

by Capt. Sonny Schindler was me, "the Pro".

When we started to head in, I looked around and totally forgot, We had 5 guys on the boat. The fellas played very well together. Everyone either stayed in their designated spot, or rotated spots. I have seen more stuff get tangled up with one or 2 people in the boat. These guys understood, we needed a little strategy for everyone to have a safe and productive trip.

With a good crew on board, the boat kinda runs itself. All you need then, is some fish to join the party...

As always, have fun and be safe.

PARADE

turn the clydesdales' visit into an actual parade. Bay Mayor Mike Favre

Echo staff photos by Geoff Belcher
The Budweiser Clydesdales parade down Union.

MS Sen. Philip Moran and Bay St. Louis Mayor Mike Favre throw beads from atop the Budweiser beer wagon.

we brought in Kay Kell as queen of Seahorse and we did our job. It was so much fun. "We were the only ones who turned it into a true parade. "It was as good a crowd as we get on Lundi Gras. It was an unbelievable crowd. For these children to get a glimpse of this historic Americana up close and personal, it was such a gift." As part of the parade, the clydesdales -- pulling a fully-restored, turn-of-the-20th-Century beer wagon - stopped in front of local establishments on Beach Boulevard to deliver cases of Budweiser. Anheuser-Busch began the clydesdale tradition in 1933 to mark the end of Prohibition, delivering cases of beer to the then-mayor of New York and President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"For folks who came out to see the clydesdales in Old Town, I hope they saw all that Bay St. Louis has to offer, even when we don't have a parade," Moon said, "so that they will continue to come down and explore Bay St. Louis and support our unique shops, galleries, restaurants and taverns."

North Bay Elementary students take a walk on the wild side

BY ZAI'IONNA ALLEN
SEA COAST ECHO JUNIOR REPORTER

Students from North Bay Elementary on Friday went to the Audubon Zoo in New Orleans. Fourth-grade teacher Dana Brown said she applied for a grant through Target Corporation, and was awarded the money to pay for the field trip. Two fourth-grade classes went to the Audubon Zoo, she said. "I wanted to provide an opportunity for students to apply what they learned," Brown said.

Before the trip, students wrote homework assignments about animals at the Audubon Zoo. They had to tell if the animals were cold-blooded, warm-blooded, and what they were covered with. During the trip, Brown gave students a chart and told them to look for types of vertebrates. Students wrote down the names of types of fish, reptiles, amphibians, mammals, and birds. Students saw elephants, otters, sun bears, lemurs, pelicans, gorillas, and parrots, to name a few. Brown said that the trip "went well."

The government's business is your business.

And Mississippians count on their newspapers to keep apprised of public notice advertising.

SCAN TO READ THE SURVEY SUMMARY

Half of Mississippi adults recall reading or seeing public notice advertising in a local or state newspaper.

And almost half (46%) of adults who have seen public notice advertising prefer to receive them in a printed newspaper, much higher than any other source.

Most Mississippians (87%) say keeping the public informed through public notices and legal advertising is an important requirement for government agencies. And the preferred method of receiving these notices is in a printed newspaper along with their associated websites.

According to a 2013 Advertising and Media Use Survey*, legal ads in printed newspapers have a much higher credibility than other media.

Over 1.5 million Mississippians read their local newspaper. Whether in print, online or on the go, newspapers are the leading source of information for Mississippi.

SEA COAST ECHO

Hancock Co., Miss. Feb. 8, 2019 – The Hancock Chamber in partnership with Hollywood Casino Gulf Coast announced today the launch of the Hancock Chamber Instagrammy Awards. The photo contest will run from Feb. 8th – July 15th.

Winners will receive their awards and recognition during the Annual Chamber Awards Gala at Hollywood Casino Gulf Coast in August. The contest was created to capture all of the beautiful images showing the quality of life in Hancock County through the Hancock My Home website and social media sources, which is a project of the Hancock Chamber Relocation Committee.

The photo contest is simple. In order to enter, contestants should follow @HancockMyHome on Instagram and tag their photos with #HancockMyHome. The picture that receives the most likes in each of the ten categories will receive an Instagrammy. There are 10 categories, each chosen to reflect different facets of life in Hancock County:

- Food
- School Spirit
- Lifestyle
- Scenic Byways
- Fashion & Beauty
- Work Life
- Entertainment
- Recreation & Sports
- Homes
- On the Water

“People from throughout the world are discovering the charming city of Bay St. Louis, enjoying the wide open pristine beaches of Waveland, relaxing in the planned resort living of Diamondhead and savoring the solitude of the Kiln countryside,” said Tish Williams, executive director of the Hancock Chamber. “Through this innovative promotion they will now be able to experience this place we call home from our best ambassadors, our citizens and visitors.”

Rules and information will remain posted on <http://hancockmsmyhome.com> through the remainder of the contest. Questions may be directed to the Hancock Chamber of Commerce at 228-467-9048.

Betty Maxwell's 14th annual SPCA of Diamondhead and Hancock County Food Pantry Pet Food Drive and Homeless Veteran's Coat and Blanket Drive was a huge success

SEA COAST ECHO

The event was held in Conjunction with RE/MAX Coast Delta Realty.

A tremendous thank you goes to all who donated and/or participated, from November 15th through December 15th, in making this an annual success for those in need.

There is such a need to help throughout the year, but I do this especially during the colder winter months to keep folks and animals warm! After my retirement in December 2016, RE/MAX Coast Delta Realty has been extremely supportive in allowing me continued usage of their very busy office as the drop off location. This year, we successfully turned over $1,800, to SPCA President Thelma Hopkins, along with about 300 pounds of cat and dog food and lanap to the SPCA of Diamondhead, who shared the food with the Hancock Animal Shelter. We also donated another 300 pounds of pet food to the Hancock Food Pantry!

So many wonderful coats, blankets, socks, caps, suits, sleeping bags, tents, shoes, and much more was donated to Homeless Veterans in Hancock County, as well as to the VA in Harrison County. Diamondhead VFW Post 2880 members David Motz and Reid Walker once again stepped up to pick up and deliver the donated items to the appropriate veteran organizations. Broker Jon Ritten and veteran and Realtor Jude Smith also assisted in loading up the trucks with donated items for delivery. My for legged rescue buddy, Chili, was also assisting in this great event. Another huge thank you to all donors, a gentle reminder to help control the pet population by spaying or neutering your pets, and a thanks for all of your donations, kindness, and patriotism! Thanks Broker Jon Ritten of RE/MAX COAST DELTA REALTY, 5400 INDIAN HILL BLVD, Diamondhead.

A New History of Live Oak Cemetery in Pass Christian

SEA COAST ECHO

The Live Oak Cemetery Association in Pass Christian has produced a new book on the history of the churchyard. Under the Live Oaks looks at a variety of the interred and shares interesting stories based on scholarly research. For example, Edwin Stanton, grandson of Abraham Lincoln's Secretary of War, died in Pass Christian and was interred in October of 1956. Mrs. Ida Grandjean Heaslip was a victim of the 7.9 earthquake and subsequent fire that destroyed major parts of San Francisco. George Carson Lawrason was held as a prisoner of war at Ship Island and Fort Pickens during the American Civil War.

In October 1867, Capt.

Charles C. Hyatt of the 24th U.S. Infantry and four others of that regiment were buried in the same plot. While Cemetery records do not contain information about the soldiers of Company K, it is possible that the Union Soldiers were interred immediately following their death, then later disinterred and sent to their families for burial elsewhere.

Live Oak Cemetery was formally created in 1851 near Trinity Episcopal Church. Since that time, over 2,500 people have been interred under the oaks of the Cemetery. Spacious, green, and historical, Live Oak Cemetery welcomes visitors, researchers, family members, and friends to visit one of the oldest cemeteries on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Live Oak is a home of spiritual and corporal rest and of comfort to families or friends who have lost loved ones. Religious faiths of varying beliefs are present.

The book was written as a fundraiser for Live Oak Cemetery Association to update maintenance systems and upkeep of the cemetery. Under the Live Oaks (76 pgs) is available for $17.50. All proceeds go to the Cemetery fund.
